We cull from the Ingersoll letter of General Taylor, which was pronounced "a forgery" by his omcial organ in New York, the following curiosities: "I was decidedly in favor of Mr. Clay's election, and would now prefer seeing him in that office to any individual in the Union-certainly much more so at any time than my-

If Gen. Taylor really wrote this, and was sincere in what he said, why does he now say to the Harris-burgh Convention that he is in the field as a candidate, and that his position is "IMMUTABLE?" Why does he persist in being a stumbling-block in the way of his dearly-beloved Mr. Clay, instead of his withdrawing at once in his favor? His refusing to do so, either proves that he did not write the Ingersoll letter, or that he is destitute of every thing like sincerity and honesty.

The next curiosity, and the greatest of them all,

I consider Mr. Clay's views, and those of the whigs, for the most part are more nearly assimilated, as regards political matters, to those of Mr. Jefferson, than their opponentsin whose political creed I was reared, and whose opinions in matters of State I have never lost sight of, as well as endeavoted to conform to them as near as circumstances would

This is directly contradicted by his letter to the democratic Rough and Ready Association of New York; for he here leads us to infer that he is well versed in the political tenets of Thos. Jefferson; but in his New York letter he said he knew too little of the political questions of the day, to determine whether he was for or against any of the great measures which have been before the country. The reader will observe that the above sentence is so badly constructed, that we may consider the General as declaring that he "was reared in the political creed" of the opponents of the present whig party, and that he has endeavored to conform to our principles. His assertion (if he made it) that the principles of the whigs assimilate more to Jefferson's than those of the democrats, surprises the whigs far more than it does us; and it has so convulsed them all with laughter, that they think he showed some good sense in following it with a third curiosity, reading thus: "I greatly doubt my want of the necessary qualifications to discharge the duties properly of an office which was filled and adorned by a Washington and a Jefferson, and others." How very modest, truly! He does not say (as probably he intended to say) that he doubts his possession of the necessary qualifications for the presidency; but he says he doubts his want of them!! Made up, as the entire letter is, of unintelligible and nonsensible jargon, the public cannot but form the conclusion that the letter is either a forgery, or that it was penned by a very different hand to that which penned his lucid and able despatches. In spite of the General's obstinate refusal to give the field to Mr. Clav, he says: "I have no WISH for the presidency, and cannot consent exclusively to be the candidate of a party."

By this he means that he is a candidate for the votes of all the whigs, and such democrats as may be fools enough to be caught in his trap of "no-partyism." As he has "no wish for the presidency," we think it both unkind and cruel in the "men of desperate political fortunes," to be trying to force him into "an undertaking at the thought of which he trem-

In the latter part of his bundle of curiosities, the General thinks "events may occur that will render the election of some other person more desirable than himself," and then says:

"Could I be elected, I will not say I will yield my pretensions, (for I have not the vanity to believe I have any for that distinguished station.) but would acquiesce, not only with pleasure in such an arrangement, but would rejoice that the republic had one more citizen more worthy and better qualified than I am to discharge the important duties apper aining to that position; and no doubt there are thou-

The clumsy arrangement and defective punctuation of this sentence, are the work of Gen. Taylor, and not us; and in regard to the sentiments, we ask every candid reader with what kind of consistency, after making such avowals, can Gen. Taylor oppose the movements of the friends of that man whom he "would prefer seeing in the presidency to any other individual in the Union," and remain in the field as a candidate against their earnest remonstrances, and, in some instances, their bitter opposition ? Compare his words with his acts, and in what light does it hold him up to the people of the Union! Does it prove his honesty and his disinterestedness, or does it show that, whether he has studied politics or not, he is a most cunning, crafty, and artful politician?

If Gen. Taylor actually wrote this letter, as his friends assert, then it is a great misfortune, both for him and them, that it was ever published. It is a direct contradiction of the "IMMUTABLE POSITION" he holds before the Harrisburgh convention, and convicts him of a duplicity and double-dealing worthy only of the most practised intriguer. He says he is a whig; but does not say whether he is a Corwin whig, a Webster whig, a Hilliard whig, or a Tyler whig ! If it satisfies our political opponents, then they are easily pleased-that's all.

HORRID OUTRAGE AT BOSTON .- The Boston papers of Thursday week, give the particulars of an outrage committed by Joseph Jewell, landlord of a public house in Tremont Row, on the person of a young had lived with the prisoner ten months in the capaci-Thursday evening, about 8 o'clock she was in her originated. room in the second story; that the prisoner knocked to the door, he seized her by the waist, and drew her into another room; placed her on a bed, promised her $300 in gold, which he said he had in his pocket, and two new dresses, and to take herself and mother to over her mouth in such a manner as to prevent her from making any loud outcry, &c., and succeeded against all the resistence she could make. Her account of the strugle and the result was dreadful.

The other witnesses examined were Margaret Maguire, Mary Lynch, (the girl's mother) and Ann Floyd, and from their testimony it app ared that Elizabeth's long absence from the kitchen excited some surprise; that fears were entertained that one of the visitors of the house, who had been eyeing her during the day, had enticed her away; that Miss Maguire went up stairs to look for her; that, finding room No. 13 locked, and that there was a man, who answered in a strange voice, there, she went down and got the other women to go up. A threat to break open the door, induced the strange-voiced man to open it. It was the prisoner. After swearing considerably at the intruders, the girl's mother in particular, the prisoner went down stairs, leaving them to make the most of what they had discovered. The head ington Union. woman of the establishment, who claims to be the prisoner's wife, appeared to treat the allair as an if trigue, and made an attempt to despatch the girl with a carving knife. This Jewell is the same man, says the N. York Sun, who, some twelve years ago, at the time of R. P. Robinson's trial, was tried in that city for the murder of a watchman named Leuba. The character he has borne heretofore corresponded with the brutality of his crimes. The punishment for Jewell's offence, according to the revised statutes, is death, and he has been fully committed for trial.

TRIAL IN THE SALEM OVER AND TERMINER .- Last week, at Salem, N. J., Hester Brown, a colored woman, was tried for killing Wm. Radley. Radley was intoxicated, and behaved outrageously at the defendant's house. She retaliated by throwing a pint bowl, which, striking him upon the head, cut it severely. About two hours after the fraces Radley died. Verdict not guilty.

Fortitude of a Woman previous to her

Execution. A woman by the name of Mary Burdeck was tried at the Bristol Assizes for the murder of a Mrs. Smith. She protested her innocence, but the jury found her guilty, and she was ordered for execution. The following account of the sang froid with which she treated the matter, is given by the Bristol Journal. Such accounts have something in them so mixed up of awfulness and eccentricity, that whilst we shudder, we can scarce repress a smile:

On quitting the bar, she was taken to the prisoner's room under the court, when she manifested the most perfect indifference to her situation. She was visited by her relations, including her brother and her children. Seeing them moved by the scene then passing, she desired them to be quiet, " and not to come there to make her low-spirited," and immediately turning to her solicitor said, " now let us to business-about the $500 in the bond? They can't hold it; that's all stuff. What will be left for the children, when all the bills are paid ?" Her attorney having answered her, she turned quickly round to her brother and said, "mind, Jem, you tax his bill." On then being pressed not to think of this world's concerns, she said, " I must attend to business." She then called Mrs. Vowles, the matron of the prison, and asked, "who makes the jail coffins?" On receiving an answer, she again turned to her brother and desired him "to get a good, strong coffin," adding, "but mind, you are not to pay more than $2 for it;" at the same time moving herself up from the bed and lifting her elbows, she said, "Mind, it must be full sized, and let it be lined with flannel; and mind that I have a warm, comfortable shroud, and don't let the coffin be screwed down too tight; recollect that it be brought to me this evening-I'll have it put by my bedside."

Her conduct during the final and awful scene was equally cool. When the hangman was adjusting the rope round her neck, she asked him if he could not "put something soft round it?" On reaching the platform it rained, and an umbrella was asked for by an officer, for the clergyman. The criminal being desired by the Governor to move on with him, she said, "No, I will wait for the umbrella." She was again reminded to proceed, but repeated that she would wait for the umbrella.

Major Noah is loud in praise of the Astor House Prima Dona Signorina Truth, and he pronounces the company, generally, better than that which visited us last summer from Havana. The Major also speaks of the audiences which have honored the new house since its opening, and indulges, while doing so, in the following fearful fancies:

"In the midst of the blaze of jewelry, the rustling of silks, the taste of dress generally among what is called our fashionables at the opera, while levelling their lorgnettes at the singers, and shouting brava and bravo, we have imagined what would be their consternation if all the traps on the stage were to open at once, and their dead ancestors solemnly rise before them-the shoemaker, with his apron, hammer, lap-stone-the tailor, with his shears and measurethe carpenter, with his adze-the baker, with his meal-the butcher with his rump steak-and the huckster, with her basket of greens, carrots, and potatoes! What shaking and trembling there would be among the silks, laces, and feathers-the tight cravats, white waistcoats, opera hats, and yellow kids. And when the spectres, would glare at them, mournfully shaking their heads at the folly of their position, and pointing in derision with their skinny fingers to the golden fretwork, painted dome, and richly-colored panels, dedicated to an amusement and in a language neither of which they understood, how cadaverous and crest-fallen would all this taste and fashion appear! And with a different, a less exclusive habit, w amiable it would be!

COUNTERFEITS - A FINE HAUL .- Marshal Hulse and pos-e yesterday laid "the strong hand" upon a gang of supposed counterfeiters, who had their headquarters at a small tavern on Front street, west of Main, known for some years past as the "National Hotel." The whole were carried before the Mayor, but the evidence was sufficient to send to jail only one of them, named E. B. Eastman. Some $15,000 of bad paper was found in his possession, consisting of counterfeits of the banks and denominations named

MEDICAL.

DIVINSIDATION

THE ONLY REMEDY:-HART'S VEGETABLE EX TRACT is an invaluable remedy for Epileptic Fits or Palling Sickness, Convuisions, Spasms, &c. It is well known that from time immemorial, physicians have pronounced Epileptic fits incurable. It has builded all their skill, and the boasted power of all medicine, and consequently thousands have suffered through a miserable existence, and at last yielded up their lives on the altar of insanity. Physicians of every age have pronounced this disease incurable. The proprietors of the vegetable extract, however, feel no delicacy in preclating that it can be cured. They would, therefore, respectfully invite physicians, and all others who are interested, to examine the teatimony which is here offered. If it is deception, let it be exposed; but if it is true, then in the name of humanity, no longer let it be said that Hart's Vegetable Extract, For sixteen years, has been tested by many persons who have suffered with this dreadful disease, and in every case where it has had a fair trial, has effected a permanent cure.

Col. Denslow, of Yonkers, New York, states that his daughter has been afflicted with fits for more than nine years, and has been cured by the vegetable extract.

Mrs. J. Bradley, 115, Orchard street, New York, states that she has been subjects to fits for many years, and has been restored to perfect health, after every other means had failed, by the use of the vegetable ford co., Pa., n. w living in Erie co., Pa., states that for many years past he has been sorely afflicted with fits, and he is now happy to state that by a persevering use of Dr. Hart's Vegetable Extract for a few months, has restored him to sound health, being entirely free from

It will Cure! The child of William C. Anderson, North Fourth street, Williams-burgh, aged 20 months, had fits constantly for eight weeks. A con-sultation of physicians was called, who decided that the case was a hopeless one, and that the child must die. Whist the child was in this dangerous state, Mr. Anderson called at my office, which was in the month of February last, and obtained a bottle of the extract with Baswell's Johnson. Mestville's Omoo, the accompanying medicines, and administered it to the child, and the aud scores in addition which we do not enumerate.

result was a perfect restoration of health, which has continued to the present time.

The son of Robert McGee, corner of Sullivan and Prince streets, New York, was severely afflicted with epileptic fits. In this case also, the physicians held a consultation, and decided that they could do no more, and that nature must effect its own cure, or the boy must die The vegetable extract was administered to him whilst in a fit, and I was told by one of the attending physicians, as well as by Mr. McGee himself, that its effects were almost instantaneous. The fit was bro-ken and the boy restored to health. Mr. McGee says, "I shall never again be without the medicine in my house if I can avoid it, for fear that some of the rest of my children may be attacked in the same Testimony upon Testimony. In reference to the almost miraculous efficacy of this truly wonderful medicine, read the follow letter from Doctor W. L. Monroe, of Guilford, Ohio, one of the most eminent physicians in that place.

Guilford, Ohio, August 17th, 1846.

Brother laborer in the cause of Humanity:

Dear Sh—It is with no small degree of pleasure that I am enabled to announce to you the complete triumph of your invaluable medicine in cases of Epilepsy. I have prescribed it in four instances in this vicinity, and it has been successful in all. Three of the patients, I trust. have been radically cured. The fourth is rapidly improving, and will, I think, without doubt recover. I am not in the habit of prescribing or recommending patent medicines, but when I see an article which promises so much for the relief of suffering humanity, I feel it my duty to recommend it; and I have no hesitation in saying, that as soon as the faculty are fully acquainted with the real merit of your medicine. they will close their eyes against prejudice, and lend you a helping hand.

I subscribe myself, yours, sincerely, W. L. MONROE, M. D.

To Dr. S. Hart, New York.

FITS OF 27 YEARS AND 6 MONTHS CURED BY THE USI Read the following remarkable case of the son of William Secore, Esq. of Philadelphia, afflicted with epileptic fits 27 years and 6 months After travelling through England, Scotland, Germany and France, consulting the most eminent physicians, and expending for medicine, medical treatment and advice, three thousand dollars, returned with his son to this country. In November last, without receiving any benefit whatever, and was cured by using Hart's Vegetable Extract.

Mr. Wm. Secore's letter to Drs. Ivans & Hart.—I have spent over three thousand dollars for medicine and medical attendance. I was advised to take a tour to Europe, which I did. I first visited England,

I consulted the most eminent physicians there in respect to his case. They examined him and prescribed accordingly. I remained there three months without perceiving any change for the better, which cost me about two hundred and fifty dollars, pocketed by the physicians, and the most I received was their oninion that my son's case was honeless. the most received was their opinion that my son's case was increased and positively incurable. I accordingly left England, and travelled through Scotland, Germany and France, and returned home in the month of November last. I saw your advertisement in one of the N. York papers, and concluded to try Hart's Vegetable Extract, seeing your statements and certificates of so many cures, some of twenty and thisty years' standing, and I can assure you that I am not sorry I did so, as by the use of Hart's Vegetable Extract alone, he was restored to perfect health. His reason, which was so far gone as to unfit him for business is entirely restored, with the prospect now before him, of life, health and usefulness. He is now 28 years of age, and 27 years and 6 months of this time has been afflicted with this most dreadful of diseases; but thank God, he is now enjoying good health. Now, gentlemen, faith without works I don't believe in. To say that I shall be ever grateful to you is one thing, and as I here enclose you one hundred dollars, I have no doubt but you will think this another, and quite a different thing. The debt of gratitude I still owe ou; but please accept this amount as interest on the debt in advance. Opinions of the Press. Frillersy.—This disease is considered by all to be the most dreadful that ever afflicted the human race, as its tendency is to insanity, madness and death. With such fearful results as these, who, among its unhappy subjects does not shudder. The most skilful physicians of Europe, as well as those of our own country, have pronounced Epilepsy (or falling sickness as it may be termed) incurable. We are happy to the site of this cite. The most described in the most dreadful at very short notice, and including no not only the publication on hand) at very short notice, and including no only the publications of Harper & Brothers, but also, through a large Bookselling and importing House, with everything published in America or Europe, so that any person in Indianapolis or neighboring towns can be supplied with any publication without extra charge.

long and tedious research, have discovered the primary cause of this dreadful disease, and also its remedy—a remedy which in most cases will in a very short time effect a permanent cure. We speak thus pos-itive, because we have within the last few weeks seen quite a number live, because we have within the last few weeks seen quite a number of persons who have been cured by their remedy; one of which is a man of unquestionable veracity, who stated to us that he had been afflicted with epilepsy in its worst form for nearly 24 years, and had from time to time employed the best medical talent to be found, and all to no purpose, until he placed himself under the treatment of Drs. Ivans & Hart, which was but a few weeks since, and now, says he, "I thank Seel I feel that I are a well uses I also feel it my days to rethank God. I feel that I am a well man. I also feel it my duty to pro-claim it to the ends of the earth, that those similarly afflicted, may find We quote the language used by some that are now under treatment and others who have been cared. One says, "I have suffered beyond m. powers of description, but now I rejoice in the prospect of soon being fully restored, as my health of late has much improved." Another who is an eminent lawyer and well known in this city, says, "My son has been afflicted for years with epilepsy, but is now enjoying good health from the Vegetable Extract. Its fame, says he, should and ought to be sounded to the ends of the earth." Another says, "Language is entirely inadequate to express my gratitude to Mesrs. Ivans k Bart for having been the means under the blessing of God, of restoring me to the enjoyment of good health after having been afflicted with epilepsy in its worst forms for more than 23 years, and my morning and evening oblations of praise and thanksgiving shall continue to as cond to that God whe has afflicted, but to make me whole? We dealth and evening oblations of praise and thanksgiving shall continue to ascend to that God who has afflicted, but to make me whole." We doubt not that the time is not far distant when thousands who are now trembling under the hand of this dreadful disease, and fearing that every stack may prove fatal, will find permanent relief and be restored to new life by using this celebrated medicine, HART'S VEGETAALE EXTRACT.—New York True Sun, N. The celebrated Candy is now the most popular of all remedies for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Broachitis, Sore Throat, Phthisic, and general affections of the Chest and Lungs. In all the above cases it is known to have afforded decided and permanent relief, which accounts for 'he rapid sales of the COUGH CANDY. We are now selling two thousand packages per week in the Western States. This is enough to convince the public, that it is just the article it is represented to be for curing. We do not say it will ever cure all diseases, but no person that has ever used the Candy for diseases of the Chest and Lungs, will say it done them no good. Circulars containing certificates and opinions of the press concerning the Candy have been issued, which we respectfully request all persons to read.

We warrant a cure for the above diseases in all cases, and challenge any person in the United States to produce a better, cheaper, and more effective remedy.
